Explain your code

The way I managed to create the result for the website was by attending the lectures which helped me to learn the code. Researching was a major help which includes reading articles and watching videos on YouTube.

The existing websites that were requested to be researched in task 1 were beneficial too. I was inspired by those sites. Each one had an element that encouraged me to create the final site some had the colour scheme and the design itself. One site was its simplicity and the other the way it's organised.

Although as a person I tend to create simple works I could have added more elements to them, and this will catch the attention of the person. One thing I could do was change the background colour from black to a darker shade of grey. Or maybe add colours to the colours or add shapes to the website to keep it more exciting.

The issue I was experiencing was the layout. Sometimes the pictures weren't in the area I wanted them to be, and neither was the text. To fix these, I had the option of the internet or asking a lecturer. Another issue I faced was the design of the footer. I was having issues with the text where they weren't placed in the area I wanted them to be.
